

BUILDING METHODS

If you are carrying a new idea, this workshop will help you move it from inspiration to an executable first launch. We will clarify the problem you are solving, define the audience you are called to serve, and establish the core principles that must anchor what you build. Then we will translate your concept into a realistic first-launch plan with clear priorities, timelines, and next steps. We will also address the personal factors that determine follow-through, including mindset, time stewardship, focus, and consistency.
